Introduction

During 2013-2016, The Rockefeller Foundation steered our sights toward our future and support of "Innovation for the next 100 years". In a world of constant change, a Centennial is a rare and tremendous milestone. In 2013, The Rockefeller Foundation marked ours with both reflection and celebration, under the banner of this Centennial theme.

We held convenings on issues important to our future in places meaningful to our past. To pay tribute to, and better understand, our rich history, we commissioned a series of books and an interactive website of stories, photos, memos and journal entries from our archives. And we launched a refreshed strategy model that we believe best positions The Rockefeller Foundation to fulfill its mission to “promote the well-being of humanity” for a new century.

We defined our dual goals—to build resilience and promote inclusive economies—and re-imagined our four focus areas: Advance Health, Revalue Ecosystems, Secure Livelihoods, and Transform Cities.

Against this backdrop, we reflect on innovations that made our first century—and our Centennial year—so remarkable: from the launch of the field of public health in the early 20th century to the launch of 100 Resilient Cities in 2013. Some are already showing impact today—for example, the Asian Cities Climate Change Resilience Network’s work with Asian cities to build resilience to climate change—while others, such as our new initiative Digital Jobs Africa, are in earlier stages. But they all have innovation at their heart and the potential for great transformations.

With the Centennial year now in our rear-view mirror, we have not hit the brakes; rather we have accelerated our pace to find and fund the best new ideas, expanded and deepened our networks for innovation, and re-animated our culture of innovation across our global office locations in New York, United States, Nairobi, Kenya, Bangkok, Thailand, and Bellagio, Italy.

Aims and purposes of the organization

The Rockefeller Foundation’s mission—unchanged since 1913—is to promote the well-being of humanity throughout the world. Today, we pursue this mission through dual goals:
advancing inclusive economies that expand opportunities for more broadly shared prosperity, and building resilience by helping people, communities and institutions prepare for, withstand, and emerge stronger from acute shocks and chronic stresses. To achieve these goals, we work at the intersection of four focus areas—advance health, revalue ecosystems, secure livelihoods, and transform cities—to address the root causes of emerging challenges and create systemic change. Together with partners and grantees, The Rockefeller Foundation strives to catalyze and scale transformative innovations, create unlikely partnerships that span sectors, and take risks others cannot.

Significant changes in the organization

There have been no significant changes.

Contribution of the organization to the work of the United Nations

No contribution was specified.

Participation in meetings of the United Nations

The Foundation's engagement with the United Nations during 2013-2016 has been strong and extensive, including grant support to UN bodies and participation of our delegation at milestone meetings:

- Rio +20
- UNFCCC COP 21
- Habitat III Summit
- World Urban Forum - Medellin
- World Humanitarian Summit
- UN Secretary-General’s Climate Resilience Initiative A2R — Anticipate, Absorb, Reshape
- and in a host of other notable United Nations gatherings.

Cooperation with United Nations bodies

The Rockefeller Foundation works closely with several United Nations bodies: the World Health Organization in support of universal health coverage; UN SG's Office on climate change; UN Habitat and UNEP on resilience in cities and the New Urban Agenda; UNDP on the Global Resilience partnership; UN Women for a leaders forum and post-harvest loss; Global Compact; and SE4ALL. And our Zero Gap initiative works at the intersection of finance and international development, a model for how the development community can support and de-risk new and innovative financing mechanisms—including financial products and public-private partnerships—to mobilize large pools of private capital that have the potential to create out-sized impact.

Initiatives taken by the organization in support of the Millennium Development Goals

Much of the Foundation’s work in recent years, along with our partners, has been about getting universal health coverage on the global agenda. We have supported securing the inclusion of UHC in the Sustainable Development Goals in 2015. Further, the Rockefeller Foundation is proud to be a signatory of the Global Compact, and to support UHC2030.
Introduction

Aims and purposes of the organization

The mission is to promote cyber-security through enhancing and developing global international partnerships to prevent detect, and combat cyberspace crimes.

Significant changes in the organization

There have been no significant changes.

Contribution of the organization to the work of the United Nations

Under the Special Consultative Status, POLCYB has contributed actively to the work of the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC) to combat cybercrime, specifically with regards to UNODC’s call for, “capacity building, prevention and awareness-raising, and international cooperation, as well as data collection, research and analysis on cybercrime.”

The international POLCYB initiatives listed below also reflect POLCYB’s efforts in supporting the UNODC to address the key challenges in combating cybercrime which were highlighted in the 2013 UNODC report, “Comprehensive Study on Cybercrime” (p. xxi – xxii). POLCYB continually shares information on new international cybercrime trends, best practices in collecting electronic evidence, capacity building, and new technologies for cybercrime investigations and identification of vulnerabilities in Internet of Things.

1) The “Secure POLCYB Trusted Community Portal” enhances international collaboration and capacity building amongst global Law Enforcement and Corporate Security professionals through sharing emerging technologies, resources, and initiatives pertaining to cybercrime prevention, detection, and response.

2) Since 2013, POLCYB has been the Co-host for the “Annual International Cybersecurity and Policing Conferences” in Kerala State, India. The conference is hosted by the Kerala State Police, India, and focuses on sharing international Cybercrime Policies and Strategies.

3) The POLCYB Executive Director and POLCYB’s international cybercrime subject matter experts presented at, “The Rule of Law in the Governance of Cyberspace Forum”, Wuhan, China, May 28-29, 2016, hosted by Zhongnan University of Economic and Law, which facilitate discussions on formulating the new Cyber Security Law in China in 2016.

In support of the UNODC “Study on the Effects of New Technologies on Abuse and Exploitation of Children”, May, 2015, POLCYB Co-hosted with the Kerala State Police, India, to organize the “KidGlove Workshop”, on 19th August 2015, to educate elementary school students and parents on prevention of online abuse of children. The POLCYB Executive Director was also a Presenter.

Participation in meetings of the United Nations

No participation was specified.

Cooperation with United Nations bodies

POLCYB did not have the opportunity to cooperate directly with United Nations Bodies, due to highly limited financial and staffing resources during this period. However, the above examples of POLCYB’s activities reflect POLCYB’s commitment to meet the common goals shared by various United Nations Bodies, particularly relating to the cybercrime work of UNODC. For example, public education on cybercrime prevention, protecting children and women against online abuse, and capacity building amongst law enforcement in developing countries.

Initiatives taken by the organization in support of the Millennium Development Goals

POLCYB conducted a wide range of international activities and initiatives which support the following two (2) Millennium Development Goals:

1) "Promote gender equality and empower women"

The POLCYB Executive Director was the Keynote Speaker at the, “Cyber Security and Ethical Hacking for Women by Women”, Kerala, India, 21 August 2014. The Kerala State Police and POLCYB co-hosted the event, which was attended by approximately 150 women in Computer Science and Engineering, and organized by women police executives of the Kerala State Police. The event aimed to empower women to combat cyber violence against women and girls in India, raise awareness of their legal rights in reporting cybercrime, and to promote gender equality in the fields of cybersecurity and cybercrime investigations. POLCYB’s participation at the above event also supports UNODC’s call to combat Violence Against Women and Girls (VAWG). In addition, POLCYB is engaged in ongoing partnerships with our global partners to support combating VAWG in the areas of Online Child Exploitation and Abuse.

2) “Develop a global partnership for development”: “In cooperation with pharmaceutical companies, provide access to affordable essential drugs in developing countries.” POLCYB promotes safe access to essential drugs in developing countries combating counterfeit pharmaceuticals. The POLCYB Executive Director and two other POLCYB Executives serve on the TechTrace Advisory Board to promote global use of information-sharing of technologies which facilitate Customs Officers around the world to identify counterfeit products, including counterfeit pharmaceuticals.
