average overall increase in the tetrahydrocannabinol content of some varieties of cannabis plant,

Stressing the health effects of cannabis as reported by the World Health Organization in *Cannabis: a Health Perspective and Research Agenda,*7 published in 1997, which is the only international assessment of cannabis,

Deeply concerned about the abuse of cannabis, especially among young people, often leading to risk-taking behaviour and about the health and social consequences associated with the abuse of cannabis, in particular the abuse of varieties of cannabis plant with a high content of tetrahydrocannabinol,

Also deeply concerned about trafficking in and the abuse of cannabis,

Concerned that there is a trend in some regions for illicit opium poppy crops to be replaced with cannabis crops,

Emphasizing the primary importance of international cooperation in combating trafficking in and the abuse of cannabis, paying attention to trafficking in cannabis seeds derived from illicitly cultivated cannabis plants,

Noting that the focus of the present resolution is the use of cannabis seeds for the illicit cultivation of cannabis plants,

Recognizing that cannabis seeds are tradable goods not controlled by the international drug control conventions,

1. Urges all Member States to take strong measures against the illicit cultivation of cannabis plant, in compliance with the Single Convention on Narcotic Drugs of 1961;8

2. Requests the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime to share information regarding the health risks posed by cannabis with the Expert Committee on Drug Dependence of the World Health Organization, and, in that regard, looks forward to an updated report on cannabis by the Expert Committee, subject to the availability of extrabudgetary resources;

3. Requests the International Narcotics Control Board, within its mandate under the international drug control treaties and, as appropriate, in cooperation with other competent international bodies, to gather from Member States regulatory information on cannabis seeds, including on the sale of cannabis seeds through the Internet, and to share that information with Member States, and invites Member States and other donors to provide extrabudgetary contributions for those purposes in accordance with the rules and procedures of the United Nations;

4. Requests the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime to conduct a global survey on cannabis seeds, starting with a market survey, and to report to the Commission, at its fifty-third session, on the results of that survey, and invites Member States and other donors to provide extrabudgetary contributions for those purposes in accordance with the rules and procedures of the United Nations;

5. Urges all Member States to consider not allowing trade in cannabis seeds for illicit purposes;

6. Requests the Executive Director of the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime to report to it at its fifty-third session on the implementation of the present resolution.
